

Abstract of the disclosure

A high-level method and system is provided for effortlessly specifying and implementing complex business applications to be integrated within an e-business environment, decoupling the specification of the business rules 5 driving the application and the user interface components from the actual implementation and generation of the software package.